ORE IN PLACE

Solid Body of Carbonate Opened at Depth of 650 Feet.

GOOD IN LEAD AND SILVER

DAY SET FOR STARTING THE MAJESTIC SMELTER.

The management of the Tetro, after having had more trials, tribulations and disappointments crowded into its career companies, announces that at last a body companies, announces that at last a body of ore has been found in place in the mine. Not only that, but everything goes to show that it will turn out to be a big and profitable one to mine.

Yesterday Manager Pollock received a report from Superintendent Robert A. Brown to the effect that in drifting less than fifteen feet along the hanging wall of the vein the small streak of ore tapped with a cross-cut of the ledge had opened out to three and one-half feet, and that every foct's advance showed it to be growing wider. Samples taken and assayed at the mine show the ore, which is a very fine carbonate, to assay from 30 to 35 per cent lead, 18 to 25 ounces sliver and $\frac{2}{3}$ in gold per ton, while it carries a nice percentage of iron as well.

The strike was made in the workings from the bottom of what is known as No. I winze, and at a vertical depth beneath the surface of $50 feet. Down in that portion of the mine a great deal of work has been done during the past several months, and more or less nice ore in bunches and stringers has been coountered in the mammoth body of quartz with which the ledge is filled. Wherever the indications for ore appeared the strengest there the work was done.

Up to the present time, however, there was never but one wall exposed, and it was finally decided to run a cross-cut to the hanging wall and see what conditions were on that side of the ledge. It required about forty feet of work to reach it, but once there a few inches of solid ore was found. A drift west along the wall was started and the report of the superintendent vesterday explained how well it was turning out.

MAJESTIC COMPANY AFFAIRS.

MAJESTIC COMPANY AFFAIRS. Date Set For Starting Smelter-President Mucklow on Caughey Suit.

The announcement was made at the offices of the Majestic Mining company yesterday that the blowing in of the lead furnace at the company's big smelter near Milford would most likely occur one week from tomorrow. Everything is being shaped to that end and when once the reduction of ore to bullion begins the intention is to keep the furnace going continuously. Great quantities of coal and coke have been delivered at the works and the loading of the receiving bins with ore is now in progress.

President Mucklow, who came out from the east early in the week, expects to remain until after the plant has been placed in commission and the first bar of bullion run into the moids. He says that the company has spent over $750,000 upon the development, equipment and operation of its mines, including the building of a smelter, and he is glad the day is drawing near when it can be proven that the cohapany's property is all that was ever claimed for it.

ing near when it can be proven that the company's property is all that was ever claimed for it.

Regarding the suit brought against him and his firm by the former secretary of the company. C. J. Caughey, in which plaintiff seeks to compel them, as fiscal agents of the company, to turn back into the treasury 16,000 shares of Majestic stock, President Mucklow said:

"An action of this kind has been threatened for some time and I have invited, rather than attempted to prevent it. I have no fears of its outcome. It is in line with the recent suit brought here against Colonel Altman, in which the Majestic company was made a party, and which was for sensational or other purposes heralded as a suit against the Majestic, but which is in reality a private suit, as an investigation of the court records here will show.

"The suit of Caughey, as I am advised—although as yet my information comes largely through the local press—seeks relief from my partners and myself on behalf of the company, although it is announced as a suit against the company. The company's interests will certainly not be injured by such action, nor am I disturbed by it in the interests of my partners or myself. It will be properly—efended in due time. In the meantime I am bending my energies to further the interests of the company, and hope to show some pleasing results along that line in the very near future."

SILVER'S UNUSUAL STRENGTH. Rise Is Attributed to Several Causes on New York End of the Line.

New York, Aug. 27.—The sharp advance in the price of bar silver in the condon and New York markets during London and New York markets during the past Iew weeks has carried it to the highest mark since November, 1901. For nearly six months the market has been on the upward move. Reports here of the large smelting interests say the rise is partly due to a heavy demand from India. Large wholesale dealers in that country are distributing a good deal of the metal to the retail trade. In addition, it is believed that there was recently a considerable short interest in the metal. Silver is a favorite article of speculation among London builton dealers.

speculation among London builton dealers.

It is believed by some that the British government is buying silver, although this cannot be confirmed. France is buying rather fively to supply a demand for coinage in the French possessions in Asia. The position of China is not clear at the moment beyond the fact that, where China at the close of last year was unloading a large surplus of the metal, thus coming in competition with shipments from the west, it has now ceased to be a seller.

The phrebases of the United States government for Philippine coinage have also been a factor.

$15,000, the result of one week's run of the big mill. This great property has so far shipped more than $100,000 since starting up in June and will average more than $100,000 per month nereafter. The new work in the mine is showing immense bodies of high grade orc, in fact far richer than the average near the surface, which is now boing put through the mill. The big bar was on exhibition in the window of Lovin & Withers store Wednesday and created great interest among people who have never seen so large a bar."

The duel was the result of a controversy, lasting for months, between the management of the National Sick Insurance funds and several thousands of physicians employed by the free hospitals, or outdoor relief. About three months ago the physicians threatened to leave the state's service in a body unless their compensation was increased from 7½ cents to at least 10 cents a visit. They also demanded certain other ameliorations of their condition. The physicians in the Muelsh hausen hospital, under the leadership of Dr. Schloss, actually did go on strike for a time, but resumed their duties pending an investigation. Dr. Schloss and Dr. Schwartz since then had a bitter personal quarrel.
